The section Autophagy of Life Sciences Switzerland organizes a biannual Swiss Autophagy Meeting with the objective of promoting exchanges and discussions around new techniques recently developed to study autophagy. With national and international renowned scientists in the field, the event has a special focus on supporting young talents and the development of a network of national scientific collaborations. The meeting will allow young researchers to exchange ideas, skills and create new scientific connections in an informal setting.

This year the event is longer. Over the 2 days, we will host two keynote lectures, talks from invited speakers, short talks, flash talks and a poster session, as well as lots of opportunities to discuss autophagy, exchange autophagy protocols and network.

This year's topic: "Emerging roles of autophagy: From cells to organisms"!
